Top of World Stormy Delaying Lindbergh Flight

TIRED PAIR SLEEP MOST OF DAY AT AKLAVIK

NEXT LEG OF TRIP TO EXTEND TO POINT BARROW, 550 MILES AWAY

MOST NORTHERN POINT TO BE VISITED ON THEIR TRAIL BLAZING FLIGHT

Aklavik, Northwest Territory, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—(Via Royal Canadian Signals Radio to Edmonton).—Dull, heavy clouds floated over the "top of the world" and blotted out the Arctic sun today as Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh rested in preparation for the next leg of their venturesome 7,000 mile vacation flight from Washington to Tokyo, Japan.

Tired after their dangerous, record breaking flight of 1,115 miles direct from Baker Lake, the Lindberghs slept most of yesterday while picturesque crowds of Eskimos, Indians, traders and trappers milled about the village in celebration of the visit.

The famous flier and his wife planned to go from here to Point Barrow, 550 miles away and the most northern point to be visited on their trail blazing tour.

Lindbergh was uncertain when he would take off. He could set the departure for almost any hour of the day or night because there is only about an hour of actual darkness out of every 24 in this country at this season of the year.

Radio reports, however, indicated storms were brewing and it was raining hard over many sections of Alaska.

That the Lindberghs would not find a cache of gasoline at Point Barrow for the pontoon-equipped monoplane appeared certain. The coast guard cutter Northland which was dispatched to the Point with gasoline reported it was ice bound and probably could not reach its destination.

The cutter radioed that in case it could not reach the Point it would wait for the Lindberghs in the vicinity of Ice Capes, about 150 miles south and west around the coastline of Alaska.

After a long sleep yesterday, the fliers visited with the strange assortment of humans who had hurried into the village from all points of the barren northland for the celebration.

Mrs. Lindbergh took special interest in the round-faced, chubby Eskimo children, some of which trotted about at the heels of the fliers and others of whom rode on the backs of their mothers. Mrs. Lindbergh had received word since leaving on the tour to the Orient that her own baby, Charles, Jr., was well and happy at the estate of her parents back in Maine.

"They seem to enjoy it, so don't bother them," Lindbergh told officers of the Mounted Police who offered to drive back the crowds of solemn natives. Both he and Mrs. Lindbergh were in splendid health and the best of humor. They appeared to enjoy the unusual party as much as the natives.

The Lindberghs found little occasion to venture out into the village from the Presbyterian manse where they were quartered. Not only the village, but the whole northland surged about their doorstep.

The next scheduled flight of the couple, that to Point Barrow, stretched over great fields of ice, a strip of country as desolate as that over which they passed in coming from Baker Lake.

REFORMS TO BE MADE IN PRISON AT STILLWATER

COMES AS RESULT OF WICKERSHAM COMMISSION REPORT

RELATES TO HANDCUFFING AND SILENCE PUNISHMENTS INFLICTED

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—A series of reforms to be inaugurated at Stillwater state penitentiary will be put into effect this fall as the result of the Wickersham commission report on handcuffing and silence punishments at the prison, it was learned authoritatively today.

The state board of control will recommend elimination of the practice of handcuffing prisoners to cells and alter the rule prohibiting talking in the prison, it was learned. The reforms will be recommended to Gov. Floyd B. Olson at a conference with the board when the governor returns from a vacation trip from the north woods.

Although members of the board would not comment on the proposed reforms, it was learned the inauguration of the new rules awaits only the approval of the governor. Olson's approval was considered certain in view of his request that the board investigate the Wickersham commission charges.

It was revealed today that as early as last month, before the Wickersham criticism was made, that the control board and Warden J. J. Sullivan of Stillwater penitentiary conferred regarding the advisability of doing away with the handcuffing for discipline rule, which now prohibits prisoners from talking except on two half days each week and holidays.

It was decided that the wave of prison unrest that resulted in a number of prison riots throughout the country made the change impractical at that time but that the modification of rules might be advisable in the fall.

The handcuffing of prisoners to the bars of their cells was deemed certain to be abolished and it was said that the silence rule would probably be modified to allow conversation on three full days a week.

Federal Courts to Decide if Wine Bricks Dissolved in Water Are a Legal Beverage

SALE OF PRESSED GRAPE BRICKS STOPPED IN N. Y.

BUSINESS AT PEAK WHEN DRY AGENTS ENTER THE STORE

CARTONS OF BRICKS SEIZED, 3 OPERATORS IN SHOP ARRESTED

New York, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Federal courts are to decide if wine bricks bought by thousands of New Yorkers in the past few days because "they turn into wine if you dissolve in water and don't drink it soon enough" are legal.

Sale of the pressed grape bricks, which have drawn thousands to the little shop on Fifth Avenue opposite Marble Collegiate church of which Daniel A. Poling, a dry leader, was once pastor, was stopped late yesterday by federal prohibition agents. Business was at its peak when the agents entered.

The three operators of the shop were arrested. The 10 young ladies who sold the bricks with instructions on how not to turn the bricks into wine were gallantly released and 140 cartons of 24 bricks each were seized. The raid was the first of its kind in this district.

Charles W. Shenk, manager of the shop, denied he or his employees had broken the law, and cited the printed instructions on each brick, which resembles in size a pound brick of butter, which said:

"Dissolve one brick in one gallon of plain water. Sugar may be added, according to taste, usually one pound for the dry types, two pounds for the sweet types."

"The beverage should be consumed within five days; otherwise and in summer temperature it might ferment and become wine."

"To prevent fermentation, add one-tenth of one per cent of benzoate of soda."

"Because yeast germs are everywhere in the air, also mold and vinegar germs, protect any kind of fruit juice against molding and souring by using the Vind Sano water seal."

The three arrested, including Shenk, are John Skiff, and Charles McDonald. They were to be arraigned before a United States commissioner today. They were freed pending arraignment on $100 bail.

The Nautilus, delayed by a breakdown in mid-Atlantic on its cruise from the United States to England, was further held up at Bergen for repairs and it was believed these incidents had forced postponement of the daring polar plans.

6 TRUNK ROAD GRADING PROJECTS LET BY STATE

WORK TO START SOON, SAYS COMMISSIONER C. M. BABCOCK

6 SHOULDERING JOBS, 1 GRAVELING CONTRACT IS ALSO LET

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Six trunk highway grading projects, six shouldering jobs and one stretch of graveling were contained in contracts let by the state highway department, Commissioner C. M. Babcock announced today.

Shouldering projects included: Trunk highway No. 18, between Elk River and Zimmerman, 9.7 miles, O'Neil and Preston, St. Paul, at $22,604.

The graveling job was on trunk highway No. 12 between Sacred Heart and Danuber, 11.9 miles, Paul Schuman, Morgan, at $4,936.

OKLAHOMA'S OIL INDUSTRY IS VIRTUALLY CLOSED

CUTS OFF STATE'S DAILY AVERAGE FLOW OF HALF MILLION BARRELS

SOLDIERS PATROL PRODUCING AREA TO KEEP EFFECTIVE GOVERNOR'S ORDERS

By GEORGE B. ROSCOE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6.—The valves of Oklahoma's petroleum industry virtually were closed today cutting off the state's daily average flow of a half million barrels of oil on a glutted market.

Khaki-clad soldiers patrolled the state's two largest oil producing areas—Oklahoma City and Seminole—to make certain not a drop of oil is produced in accordance with Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray's martial law edict, effective, the governor says, until oil rises to $1 a barrel.

The shut down was almost complete today. At his headquarters at the Seminole city hall, Lt. Col. Cicero I. Murray, field marshal of the governor's oil field army of occupation, estimated that 90 per cent of Oklahoma's flush oil wells had closed.

However, court action threatened as the next move of the operators to combat the order which has stifled Oklahoma's principal industry and made of its best fields a desolate oil smeared wilderness of derricks.

Harry F. Sinclair, the usually aggressive chairman of the board of Sinclair Consolidated Oil Companies alone answered the governor's attack on him. Murray was vehement in singling out the multi-millionaire, whom he has called his arch enemy, as the man "most responsible for the depressed oil prices."

"If the absurdity and injustice of the governor's proclamation is not clear to all who read it, anything I might say about it would be wasted breath," Sinclair said in a formal statement.

"All the proclamations and troops in the world cannot add one cent to the price of oil."

"We have far more concern about the outside world's opinion of a state whose affairs are at the mercy of such an act as the governor's proclamation of martial law."

Other companies withheld comment but indicated some action would come within 48 hours. None wished to take the initial step. All watched waiting for an opening for a legal attack.

Horace G. McKeever, attorney for the Champlin Refining Co., which yesterday lost its attack on the constitutionality of the state pro-ration laws, told the United Press the company does not contemplate a fight, legal or otherwise, with the governor.

"As far as we are concerned, the governor is fighting a windmill and we are not sure whether he is a William the Conqueror or Don Quixote," McKeever said.

MOLLISON BREAKS AUSTRALIA-ENGLAND FLIGHT RECORD

FIRST SHOWING OF PAUL POIRET'S WINTER FASHIONS

REVEALS THAT THE BUSTLE HAS BECOME MORE THAN A HINT

PETTICOATS MISSING WHICH MAKES BUSTLE EASIER TO MANAGE

By MARY K. KNIGHT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Aug. 6.—The first showing of Paul Poiret's winter fashions before a select group revealed that the bustle has become more than just a hint in the new styles.

The Paul Poiret bustle is as much a bustle as it was when grandmother manipulated hers beneath yards of petticoats. The petticoats are missing, however, which makes the bustle infinitely easier to manage.

Some rest in the conventional place for bustles in these models, others are placed just below the belt line, while some begin a few inches further down. In many instances the material used to form the bustle-effect is continued on into a train.

The gowns, less severe in their return to bygone days, were those of the Directoire period where suggestion played the greater part of accomplishment. High waists were in evidence. Square necks further accentuated the period.

A demure costume which dispelled the need of gloves included a black net cuff, terminating a long and tight net sleeve, falling completely over the hand and reaching to the tip of the longest finger.

FAIL TO FIND CAPT. AMUNDSEN ON RUDOLPH ISLAND

GROUP OF RUSSIANS ABOARD SOVIET ICE BREAKER EX-PLORE ISLAND

CACHE OF SUPPLIES LEFT BY FIAPA PARTY EASILY LOCATED

By DAN DRESSER (United Press Correspondent)

Aboard Soviet Icebreaker Malgyn, by radio at sea, Aug. 5.—We have failed to find Capt. Raold Amundsen on Rudolph Island.

With a group of Russians from the Malgyn, I visited Rudolph Island today in search of the brave explorer whose airplane hunt for Gen. Umberto Nobile, of our present party, and his companions of the dirigible Italia resulted in his disappearance in 1928.

We easily located the cache of supplies left by the Fiapa party a generation ago, but there was no sign of Amundsen or the six Italians lost from the Italia crew.

The house on the island is still standing and in good condition. Many supplies are in fair shape. Canned corned beef in the cache was still edible.

There was so sign that the island had been visited within recent years. The Malgyn will be unable to penetrate farther to the northward on account of heavy ice which even this craft constructed especially for ice-breaking is unable to combat. We are therefore proceeding to the south, westward in search of traces of the six Italians from the Italia, for whose safety General Nobile still entertains hopes.

THOMAS A. EDISON IS MUCH IMPROVED

He slept about 10 hours last night, according to reports from the Edison home.

MAY TAKE SOME 600,000 BALES, OPTION ON MORE

GERMANY'S PROPOSAL TRANSMITTED TO WASHINGTON LAST NIGHT

FRES. HOOVER'S SUGGESTION TO BUY WHEAT SHELVED TEMPORARILY

By FREDERICK KUH (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Accepting a suggestion of President Hoover transmitted through Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, the German government offered today to buy from the federal farm board 600,000 bales of United States cotton and to acquire an option on an additional 200,000 bales.

From most reliable sources it was learned Germany's proposal was transmitted to Washington last night.

President Hoover's further suggestion that Germany purchase American wheat was temporarily shelved, pending conclusion of the cotton deal. Experts seemed to believe that similar arrangements on wheat could be made only on a small scale.

The German acquiescence to Mr. Hoover's suggestions was expected to produce favorable repercussions in both Germany and the United States, both from the standpoint of public opinion and of economics.

Germany stands in need of both cotton and wheat, according to experts, and the purchase from America was expected to help in strengthening prices and developing confidence.

The offer stipulated, it was learned, that it would be on a basis of a three-year credit. Pay would be in buyers' dollar notes at 4 per cent interest. Readiness was expressed to pay on delivery of goods.

The estimated value of the cotton involved in the German offer was between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, it was said.

It was learned the United States had not made a specific offer, but had advised Germany that the farm board was ready to dispose of 1,000,000 bales of cotton and 1,225,000 tons of wheat on a long term credit basis and that it would accordingly welcome a German offer.

Liverpool Wheat to Lowest Prices Since Queen Elizabeth's Time

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—With Liverpool wheat prices at lowest levels since Queen Elizabeth's time, all deliveries of wheat and oats tumbled to new seasonal lows today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

September wheat fell to the all-time low of 48 cents at the opening. March corn followed the tumble and September and December rye also were at new lows for the season.

The unprecedented fall in Liverpool price which broke through the price levels of 1931, was blamed for the decline in the Chicago pit.

December wheat sold at 51½, ½ cent under yesterday's close. May wheat sold at 56½, ¾ cents under the previous close.

"If the absurdity and injustice of the governor's proclamation is not clear to all who read it, anything I might say about it would be wasted breath," Sinclair said in a formal statement.

"All the proclamations and troops in the world cannot add one cent to the price of oil."

"We have far more concern about the outside world's opinion of a state whose affairs are at the mercy of such an act as the governor's proclamation of martial law."

Other companies withheld comment but indicated some action would come within 48 hours. None wished to take the initial step. All watched waiting for an opening for a legal attack. Horace G. McKeever, attorney for the Champlin Refining Co., which yesterday lost its attack on the constitutionality of the state pro-ration laws, told the United Press the company does not contemplate a fight, legal or otherwise, with the governor.

"As far as we are concerned, the governor is fighting a windmill and we are not sure whether he is a William the Conqueror or Don Quixote," McKeever said.

MOLLISON BREAKS AUSTRALIA-ENGLAND FLIGHT RECORD

London, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—J. A. Mollison, youthful Scottish flier, landed today at Pevensey Bay from Le Bourget airdrome at 2:30 p. m., breaking the Australia-to-England flight record by more than a day.

The previous record, held by C. W. A. Scott, was 10 days, 23 hours. Mollison intended to proceed to Lymington as soon as possible, and to go from there to Croydon.

FIRST SHOWING OF PAUL POIRET'S WINTER FASHIONS

REVEALS THAT THE BUSTLE HAS BECOME MORE THAN A HINT

PETTICOATS MISSING WHICH MAKES BUSTLE EASIER TO MANAGE

By MARY K. KNIGHT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Aug. 6.—The first showing of Paul Poiret's winter fashions before a select group revealed that the bustle has become more than just a hint in the new styles.

The Paul Poiret bustle is as much a bustle as it was when grandmother manipulated hers beneath yards of petticoats. The petticoats are missing, however, which makes the bustle infinitely easier to manage.

Some rest in the conventional place for bustles in these models, others are placed just below the belt line, while some begin a few inches further down. In many instances the material used to form the bustle-effect is continued on into a train.

The gowns, less severe in their return to bygone days, were those of the Directoire period where suggestion played the greater part of accomplishment. High waistlines were in evidence. Square necks further accentuated the period.

A demure costume which dispelled the need of gloves included a black net cuff, terminating a long and tight net sleeve, falling completely over the hand and reaching to the tip of the longest finger.

FAIL TO FIND CAPT. AMUNDSEN ON RUDOLPH ISLAND

CACHE OF SUPPLIES LEFT BY FIALA PARTY EASILY LOCATED

By DAN DRESSER (United Press Correspondent)

Aboard Soviet Icebreaker Malgyn, by radio at sea, Aug. 5.—We have failed to find Capt. Raold Amundsen on Rudolph Island.

With a group of Russians from the Malgyn, I visited Rudolph Island today in search of the brave explorer whose airplane hunt for Gen. Umberto Nobile, of our present party, and his companions of the dirigible Italia resulted in his disappearance in 1928.

We easily located the cache of supplies left by the Fiala party a generation ago, but there was no sign of Amundsen or the six Italians lost from the Italia crew.

The house on the island is still standing and in good condition. Many supplies are in fair shape. Canned corned beef in the cache was still edible.

There was so sign that the island had been visited within recent years.

The Malgyn will be unable to penetrate farther to the northward on account of heavy ice which even this craft constructed especially for ice-breaking is unable to combat. We are therefore proceeding to the southwestward in search of traces of the six Italians from the Italia, for whose safety General Nobile still entertains hopes.

THOMAS A. EDISON IS MUCH IMPROVED

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Thomas A. Edison was much improved today after the best night he has had since his collapse last Saturday, according to Dr. Hubert S. Howe, his physician.

It was said the inventor's activities of yesterday—he lunched with Samuel Insull and later went driving in his car—had tired him.

He slept about 10 hours last night, according to reports from the Edison home.

MAY TAKE SOME 600,000 BALES, OPTION ON MORE

GERMANY'S PROPOSAL TRANSMITTED TO WASHINGTON LAST NIGHT

PRES. HOOVER'S SUGGESTION TO BUY WHEAT SHELVED TEMPORARILY

By FREDERICK KUH (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Aug. 6.—Accepting a suggestion of President Hoover transmitted through Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, the German government offered today to buy from the federal farm board 600,000 bales of United States cotton and to acquire an option on an additional 200,000 bales.

From most reliable sources it was learned Germany's proposal was transmitted to Washington last night.

President Hoover's further suggestion that Germany purchase American wheat was temporarily shelved, pending conclusion of the cotton deal. Experts seemed to believe that similar arrangements on wheat could be made only on a small scale.

The German acquiescence to Mr. Hoover's suggestions was expected to produce favorable repercussions in both Germany and the United States, both from the standpoint of public opinion and of economics.

Germany stands in need of both cotton and wheat, according to experts, and the purchase from America was expected to help in strengthening prices and developing confidence.

The offer stipulated, it was learned, that it would be on a basis of a three-year credit. Pay would be in buyers' dollar notes at 4 1/2 per cent interest. Readiness was expressed to pay on delivery of goods.

The estimated value of the cotton involved in the German offer was between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000, it was said.

It was learned the United States had not made a specific offer, but had advised Germany that the farm board was ready to dispose of 1,100,000 bales of cotton and 1,225,000 tons of wheat on a long term credit basis and that it would accordingly welcome a German offer.

Liverpool Wheat to Lowest Prices Since Queen Elizabeth's Time

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—With Liverpool wheat prices at lowest levels since Queen Elizabeth's time, all deliveries of wheat and oats tumbled to new seasonal lows today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

September wheat fell to the all-time low of 48 cents at the opening. March corn followed the tumble and September and December rye also were at new lows for the season.

The unprecedented fall in Liverpool price which broke through the price levels of 1921, was blamed for the decline in the Chicago pit.

December wheat sold at 51 1/2, 1/2 cent under yesterday's close. May wheat sold at 56 1/2, 1/2 cents under the previous close.

Leaps from Plane When It Goes Into Inverted Spin

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Leaping from an airplane when it went into an inverted spin at 3,000 feet, Lieut. Harry Johnson, 37, one of the army's crack test pilots, today saved his life with a parachute. Johnson shot earthward, pulling his chute at 2,500 feet. He landed on the bank of the Clinton river, five miles east of the field. He suffered a wrenched shoulder.

Body of Farmer Found Hanging in Granary

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—The body of Martin Kessel, Driscoll farmer, was discovered hanging from the ceiling of the granary on his farm last night.

A verdict of suicide by hanging was given by a coroner's jury but no reason could be ascribed for the act. Kessel was survived by his widow and five children.

Plan Unemployment Relief for Next Winter

Oklahoma City, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Delegates from fifteen Mississippi valley states will meet at Memphis, Tenn., August 24, to plan unemployment relief campaigns for next winter. Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma sent out the call to the relief committees late yesterday.

Drag River for Body of Drowned St. Paul Boy

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—County authorities today dragged the Minnesota river just south of St. Paul for the body of Carl Lange, 19, who drowned while swimming with a number of friends today.

Three men were killed and four injured in Chicago Monday when police battled 3,000 Communists who sought to prevent court eviction of a woman from her home. The three slain were Negroes. This photograph shows crowds which gathered in Dearborn St. in the Negro residence district, following the rioting. At the right is the house where the eviction took place.

MERCHANT OUTWITS CONFIDENCE GAME

Brainerd Man Accompanies Men to St. Paul to Complete Sale and Gets New Slant on Transaction

MOTIVE BELIEVED KIDNAPING

Employing of Detective Spoils Game; Men Escape After St. Paul Loop Chase

A Brainerd merchant outwitted two confidence men who induced him to St. Paul in what is believed an attempt to kidnap him and hold him for ransom, according to a story told by the merchant today.

The merchant requested that his name be withheld from publication.

The confidence men, threatened with arrest by the merchant and a detective he had employed to protect him, fled from a St. Paul hotel and eluded their pursuers after a half an hour chase through downtown St. Paul. The men left their baggage in the hotel.

The merchant's first suspicions were aroused when the confidence men kept playing him with questions as to the amount of money he kept in the bank as a working capital. His suspicions were confirmed when the men, after getting him to St. Paul, desired to return to Brainerd to complete the purchase of his store and property, when he introduced the detective as an old friend whom he had not seen for years.

The confidence game was one of the cleverest attempted here in St. Paul, detectives said.

This is the story told by the Brainerd merchant:

"Several days ago, two men, one elderly, the other younger, came to my store and said they desired to purchase a location for the establishment of a lumber and fuel yard. They desired several days to investigate my credentials and after such a supposed investigation returned to my store and offered me $10,000 for my property. They also offered in addition a $1500 lot in St. Paul. The transaction was to be completed when the financier from Ohio came to Brainerd. However the financier telephoned me, begged apologies that his health would not permit him to make the trip to Brainerd and requested that I accompany his representatives to St. Paul where he would complete the deal and at the same time show me the lot.

"The entire proposition sounded logical to me until the men asked me several times the amount of money I retained in bank. I became further suspicious when they crossed names than those I was introduced to. When we arrived in St. Paul we registered at a downtown hotel and were to look at the lot the next morning. I telephoned my wife and instructed her to pay no attention to any communication except by my own speech. She became frightened but I told her not to worry. The next morning I telephoned the McSweeney Detective Agency and a detective came. We planned our program. He was to be an old friend I had just then met on the street and since he was familiar in St. Paul I was to ask him to accompany us on the inspection trip of the lot. My would be buyers came and I was invited to breakfast. The detective declined, saying he had just eaten. As we sat at breakfast, the elderly man continually remarked that my friend was quite an athletic type. I said he was a former school athlete and he was now a taxi driver in St. Paul. After breakfast my detective joined us and we informed the men we were ready to see the lot. Taken aback by this turn of events the men told us that the deed to the property was in an office of a friend and that since the friend had left town for the day they suggested that we return to Brainerd and close the deal.

"I demanded that I be shown the lot and after the men offered more excuses I confronted them with the statement that I believed they were imposters and told them I had employed the detective. The detective then informed the men he would detain them until they were investigated. When they learned this, the men took to their heels. We chased them through several stores, streets and alleys but they got away."

On his return to Brainerd the merchant learned that the men had registered at a local hotel under names other than those given him. He also found that the men were users of narcotics.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Population Figures POPULATION statistics as released by the federal government seem to bear out some of the statements made by W. F. Webster, former superintendent of schools of Minneapolis, who spoke at Rotary club and painted a doleful picture that some time in the future population increases would cease in the United States and we would become a staid, self-satisfied old nation filled with decadent ideas, irresponsible to the flame of youth appeal to buy six suits a year, eat heavy dinners, dance nights and burn a lot of gasoline, etc.

The Bureau of the Census announces that according to the returns received, there were 1,128,180 marriages performed in the United States during the year 1930, as compared with 1,232,559 in 1929. These figures represent a decrease of 104,379 or 8.5 per cent. There was an increase of 4.2 per cent from 1928 to 1929.

During the year 1930 there were 191,630 divorces granted in the United States, as compared with 201,468 in 1929, representing a decrease of 9,838 or 4.9 per cent. There were 4,333 marriages annulled in 1930, as compared with 4,408 in 1929.

The estimated population of continental United States on July 1, 1930, was 123,191,000 and on July 1, 1929, was 121,526,429.

RETZLAFF READY

FOR HIS MATCH

WITH BERTAZZOLO

DULUTH DEMOLISHER IS NORTHWEST'S NEWEST HEAVY TITLE HOPE

MEETS ITALIAN CHAMPION IN TWIN CITIES FRIDAY NIGHT

B. S. THOM GROUSE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Aug. 6.—(UP)—The northwest's newest heavyweight title hope, Charles Retzlaff, today poured all of his heaviest punches into the bags, preparing for his match with Ricardo Bertazzolo, Italian champion, Friday night and the few remaining fights between him and a championship bout.

The Duluth demolisher, who has blasted his way up from the preliminaries in less than a year by virtue of one of the hardest punches since the days of Jack Dempsey is making his last appearance in the west, his manager, Jack Hurley, said. Retzlaff will be the center of a number of important fights in New York during the coming season, Hurley said.

In Bertazzolo, Retzlaff meets a man who has fought many of the topnotchers, but never has been put off his feet. Bertazzolo after winning the Italian championship from Emilio Spalla, was brought to this country to fight with Primo Carnera.

The bout with the "ambulating Alp" was stopped in the fourth round because of a cut over the Italian champion's eye. Bertazzolo numbers among his victories decisions over Jim Maloney, Al Friedman, Jose Santos, Jack

Warren and Pietro Corri. He holds a knockout over Pierre Charles, drew with Roberto Roberti and lost on a foul to Phil Scott after flooring the Englishman four times in the seven rounds. In all Bertazzolo has 30 bouts to his credit and has won over 20 by knockouts. Retzlaff has 30 knockouts out of 34 fights in his record book.

Friday's fight will be Retzlaff's second appearance in the Twin Cities in an important bout. Last season Hurley brought the Duluth fighter to Minneapolis to knockout big Angus McDonald.

Hurley kept Retzlaff well under wraps for two years before taking him east in a bid for the big money bouts. Numerous fights in Duluth and Fargo rings gave Retzlaff the confidence and punch that has made him a sensation in eastern fight circles.

Bertazzolo, speaking through an interpreter and his manager, Frank Marlow, claims to have a defense against Retzlaff's right hand sock and points to his own record to confirm his own hitting prowess. It is admitted that Bertazzolo can hit and many believe the fight will test whether Retzlaff can "take 'em."

The semiwindup bout will bring two local favorites together and settle the clamor for another chance to see Willie Wohlwend, Lake City light heavyweight in action. Wohlwend, who started to build up an impressive string of wins, was stopped this morning will go up against a seasoned veteran in Mike Mandell, St. Paul. "MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Orphaned by the death of her parents, beautiful and vivacious Mary Lou Thurston lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Sanderson, and takes care of Billy, their son. When Sanderson and his wife go abroad, leaving Billy with his grandmother, Mary Lou is left on her own. Larry Mitchell, young newspaper reporter and Mary Lou's pal, finds an ad in which a companion for a semi-invalid is sought. Mary Lou arrives at the stately Lorrimer mansion in Connecticut and is interviewed by the charming Mrs. Lorrimer. Mary Lou is bitterly disappointed to learn the semi-invalid is Mrs. Lorrimer's son, Travers, and the ad should have read "male" companion. Travers, shell-shocked in the war, and suffering from another sad experience, is listless, almost a recluse. As Mary Lou prepares to leave, Travers enters the room. He rushes to Mary Lou, takes her in his arms and calls her "Delight" and "wife." Overwrought when she does not respond, he faints. Mrs. Lorrimer persuades Mary Lou to remain until the doctor arrives.

CHAPTER X.

WITH no further protest Mary Lou followed Peter from the room and went with him to the broad curving stairs.

Above the rooms opened on a gallery. The room into which Peter showed her, silently, was evidently Mrs. Lorrimer's private sitting room, a charming, restful, sunny place, done beautifully in soft grays and clear greens with odd little touches of mauve and rose.

Mary Lou stood hesitant. She had never been so bewildered in all her 20 years. She said aloud, "Oh, what on earth shall I do?"

She was talking, perhaps, to herself. But Peter answered, deferential but briskly:

"If I were you, Miss, I'd sit down and—rest. You've had a shock," said the elderly man, quietly.

"Mr. Travers—" He stopped and said no more, realizing that it was not part of his duty to discuss family matters with an outsider. He indicated the chaise-longue, the comfortable, deep chair, the many books, scattered on small tables and housed in built-in book-cases, the silver and enamel boxes of cigarettes. "If you'd take a chair, Miss," he suggested, "and make yourself at home?"

A Real Home.

Mary Lou reached up mechanically to take off her hat. Her head ached. But, then, she remembered that the hat lay on the floor where Lorrimer had cast it. She remembered that her coat and her pocketbook were downstairs. There was nothing to do but wait.

Peter went out and closed the door softly behind him. Mary Lou stared around her, unseeing at first, and then gradually absorbing the really exquisite surroundings in which she so amazingly found herself.

She rose and, at first timidly, wandered about the big, rather oddly shaped room.

"I suppose it's what they call a boudoir," remarked Mary Lou to herself with a half giggle, her courage, color and spirit beginning to return. "I've read about 'em and I can pronounce 'em," she informed herself further, "but it's the first time I've ever come into contact with one of 'em!"

There was nothing lacy or overcrowded, perfumed or bedecked about the room. It was simply a comfortable, lived-in sort of place, restrained and beautiful in coloring and appointments and filled with books, old and new, shabby and fresh.

Over by the corner of the bookcase, near the great double windows which looked out over the lawns and had in addition a silver glimpse of the Sound as well, Mary Lou lifted her eager, book-loving eyes from the rows upon rows of volumes and looked straight into equally eager, laughing eyes which looked down on her from a photograph framed in heavy, dull silver which stood where two bookcases meeting made an angle. It was the only photograph in the room.

For a moment Mary Lou stared, conscious of a slight shock. She knew the eyes, she thought, and the face . . . a lean, laughing face under the jaunty cap of the Royal Flying Corps. She knew, too, she thought, the tall, broad-shouldered, uniformed figure, sitting very negligently on some excellent photographer's bench. Knew and yet did not know. And it was a full minute before it dawned on her that here was Travers Lorrimer, the man downstairs, the man who had exposed her to so frightening and inexplicable a scene, a scene of which she was trying hard not to think, lest she become terrified again.

Whys and Wherefores.

Lorrimer as he had been, Lorrimer very young, Lorrimer in early 1915, so many years ago, Lorrimer just turned 18 years of age, a laughing, delightful boy.

Her heart hurt her with pity. Half unconsciously she reached up and carefully lifted down the big heavy frame and went to the couch and sat down, still holding the picture, looking at it intently, wondering about it.

For whom had he mistaken her? Someone named Delight? Odd name, pretty name, she liked it. Someone he had not seen in a long time. Someone he loved . . . and called . . . his wife. Who was she and where was she? Was she dead, were they trying to keep it from him, or had she deserted him? Where had he married her . . . ? and when . . . ?

She came back again and again to that incredible and breathless moment when she had been caught up in arms grown suddenly strong, when she had been held close to this stranger's heart, when she had felt his lips on her eyelids, on her face. . . .

What was the explanation? Oh, she would have to wait and hear; she owed that to Mrs. Lorrimer! But she wanted to get away somehow. She was still afraid, still very unsure of herself.

She put the picture down beside her and reached out for a magazine to distract her from her thoughts and ceaseless speculations. But, turning the pages, her eyes, fastened on picture or text, saw nothing, read nothing; the printed words made absolutely no sense. What would she do now? After she got back to Oakdale? How far away Oakdale seemed! Was it only this morning that she had left there, eaten her hasty breakfast with Billy bouncing in his chair, with Adelaide complaining from her couch and Gram bustling in from the kitchen? Only this morning, too, that she had seen Larry and he had teased her about her adventuring into the land of Those Seeking Employment? "Remember you are a lineal descendant of Queen Cleopatra," he had said. Well, she hadn't been able to remember she was anyone's descendant—today's events had stripped her of family, relatives, friends and even actual existence, so forlorn and strange, so bewildered she had been!

Well, soon Mrs. Lorrimer would come and explain what there was to explain. . . . not that it mattered, she thought, poor fellow, poor unhappy, unfortunate boy—but she'd wait and listen and then perhaps Mrs. Lorrimer would send her to the station and she would go on back to New York and Oakdale. And tomorrow she would come into town again and present the letter written by Mrs. Lorrimer for her and perhaps something would come of it, perhaps she would get a position.

There was a step in the hall. She stiffened, listening eagerly. No, not Mrs. Lorrimer's step and Mrs. Lorrimer would not have knocked.

"Come in—"

It was Peter, with a tray, the smart maidservant following him.

"Luncheon, Miss Thurston," said Peter gravely. "Mrs. Lorrimer is still with Doctor Mathews and begs you to excuse her. She said she hoped you would find everything to your liking and she will join you here presently."

While Peter arranged the luncheon on a little dropleaf table which he drew out from the wall, the maid said, pleasantly:

"I'm Hilda, Miss. Mrs. Lorrimer asked me to show you into her room in case you wished to brush your hair and wash. . . ."

Feeling suddenly as if she had entered a fascinating fairy tale, with its One-Eye, Two-Eye, Three-Eye, miraculously appearing luncheon tables and all, Mary Lou followed Hilda's becoming maroon uniform into the loveliest bedroom she had ever seen in her life and through that into a great bathroom, painted and decorated in mauves and greens. There was a huge dressing table there with many mirrors and rows of crystal bottles with jade stoppers and squat crystal jars filled with cold creams and cosmetics which looked quite good enough to eat.

Hilda produced heavy linen towels and gayly colored wash cloths, a powder jar and tufts of ribbon-tied cotton and a brand new brush and comb in a little case and, after inquiring whether there was anything more she could do, withdrew.

Mary Lou washed her hands and face, combed her hair and powdered her pert little nose in a sort of dazed and lazy dream. Even the towels were too good to be true. Her fascinated eyes lingered long on the shining shower with its heavy glass door. She'd never seen one like it and was by now so "surrendered to circumstances" that if Hilda had suddenly invited her to bathe in the pale green sunken tub or to stand under the needle-spray of the shower, she would probably have done so, without question.

Fairyland.

She walked about and looked at the interesting walls, cool green and splashed with lavender in strange and unconventional flower designs. She had just about decided that it looked like a garden of iris when Hilda knocked at the door and announced luncheon. So Mary Lou went obediently out of the beautiful bathroom into the more beautiful bedroom and through to the sitting-room, suddenly conscious that she was very hungry indeed.

Hilda had vanished. Peter hovered for a moment to see that the tea was strong enough and everything arranged for her comfort and then he, too, followed Hilda's example and left Mary Lou to gaze upon her tray with extreme pleasure and appetite.

A round of orange-bright melon, a slice of lime, a cup of steaming hot clear chicken broth, lots of brown bread, which she loved, cut thin, the way she liked it; Melba toast as well, fresh buttered; a lamb chop, a baked potato, taken out of its shell and whipped with cream and put back again, and new green peas in milk; tea, with lemon and with cream; and a funny little fruit dessert, a fluff and sweetness such as girls love.

Population Figures

POPULATION statistics as released by the federal government seem to bear out some of the statements made by W. F. Webster, former superintendent of schools of Minneapolis, who spoke at Rotary club and painted a doleful picture that some time in the future population increases would cease in the United States and we would become a staid, self-satisfied old nation filled with decadent ideas, irresponsible to the flame of youth appeal to buy six suits a year, eat heavy dinners, dance nights and burn a lot of gasoline, etc.

The Bureau of the Census announces that according to the returns received, there were 1,128,180 marriages performed in the United States during the year 1930, as compared with 1,232,559 in 1929. These figures represent a decrease of 104,379 or 8.5 per cent. There was an increase of 4.2 per cent from 1928 to 1929.

During the year 1930 there were 191,630 divorces granted in the United States, as compared with 201,468 in 1929, representing a decrease of 9,838 or 4.9 per cent. There were 4,333 marriages annulled in 1930, as compared with 4,408 in 1929.

The estimated population of continental United States on July 1, 1930, was 123,191,000 and on July 1, 1929, was 121,526,429.

FOR HIS MATCH WITH BERTAZZOLO

DULUTH DEMOLISHER IS NORTHWEST'S NEWEST HEAVY TITLE HOPE

MEETS ITALIAN CHAMPION IN TWIN CITIES FRIDAY NIGHT

B. S. THOM GROUSE (United Press Staff Correspondent) St. Paul, Aug. 6.—(UP)—The northwest's newest heavyweight title hope, Charles Retzlaff, today poured all of his heaviest punches into the bags, preparing for his match with Ricardo Bertazzolo, Italian champion, Friday night and the few remaining fights between him and a championship bout. The Duluth demolisher, who has blasted his way up from the preliminaries in less than a year by virtue of one of the hardest punches since the days of Jack Dempsey is making his last appearance in the west, his manager, Jack Hurley, said. Retzlaff will be the center of a number of important fights in New York during the coming season, Hurley said.

In Bertazzolo, Retzlaff meets a man who has fought many of the topnotchers, but never has been put off his feet. Bertazzolo after winning the Italian championship from Emelio Spalla, was brought to this country to fight with Primo Carnera.

The bout with the "ambuling Alp" was stopped in the fourth round because of a cut over the Italian champion's eye. Bertazzolo numbers among his victories decisions over Jim Maloney, Al Friedman, Jose Santos, Jack

Warren and Pietro Corri. He holds a knockout over Pierre Charles, drew with Roberto Roberti and lost on a foul to Phil Scott after flooring the Englishman four times in the seven rounds. In all Bertazzolo has 30 bouts to his credit and has won over 20 by knockouts. Retzlaff has 30 knockouts out of 34 fights in his record book. Friday's fight will be Retzlaff's second appearance in the Twin Cities in an important bout. Last season Hurley brought the Duluth fighter to Minneapolis to knockout big Angus McDonald.

Hurley kept Retzlaff well under wraps for two years before taking him east in a bid for the big money bouts. Numerous fights in Duluth and Fargo rings gave Retzlaff the confidence and punch that has made him a sensation in eastern fight circles.

Bertazzolo, speaking through an interpreter and his manager, Frank Marlow, claims to have a defense against Retzlaff's right hand sock and points to his own record to confirm his own hitting prowess. It is admitted that Bertazzolo can hit and many believe the fight will test whether Retzlaff can "take 'em."

The semiwindup bout will bring two local favorites together and settle the clamor for another chance to see Wal-lie Wohlwend, Lake City light heavyweight in action. Wohlwend, who started to build up an impressive string of wins, was stopped this spring will go up against a seasoned veteran in Mike Mandell, St. Paul. The bout will be at six rounds and 185 pounds. Other bouts on the 40 round card include Mel Coleman, St. Paul, vs. Pat O'Brien, St. Paul, 165 lbs.; Denny Ryan, St. Paul, vs. Joe Kell, Minneapolis, 150 lbs.; Larry Brown, St. Paul, vs. Jimmy King, Eau Claire, 165 lbs.; all six rounds and John Musky, St. Paul, vs. Joey Erie, Stillwater, 138 lbs. and Jimmy Hogan, Anoka, vs. Arnold Benkie, Rochester, 145 lbs.

CHARIVARI PARTY IS TOO ACTIVE

BRIDAL PAIR, UNABLE TO SLEEP
2 WEEKS, APPEALS TO GOV.

LA FOLLETTE

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—For the two weeks since their marriage, Arvo Jeori and his bride have been unable to sleep, so they appealed to Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette for relief.

"It is the neighbors," their letter to the governor said. "Every night they hold a charivari party and pound tin pans and toot horns under the windows of our farm home from dark to dawn."

"We have appealed to the sheriff but the charivari is still going on. We swore out warrants, but that didn't do any good because the sheriff let them all go as soon as he had arrested them. We do not care to make trouble, but we do feel that we have the right to peace on our farm. We don't think it will do any good to go to the sheriff again, so we appeal to you as governor for relief."

According to the unwritten laws regulating charivaris in the north country, the father of the bride is expected to give the noise makers some kind of a present. Then they quit and go home. The crowd—and it's been growing nightly—has demanded that John Peterson, father of Mrs. Juori, donate $15. He has refused, so each night the crowd returns to renew their demands—and their noise.

CHARIVARI PARTY IS TOO ACTIVE

BRIDAL PAIR, UNABLE TO SLEEP
2 WEEKS, APPEALS TO GOV.
LA FOLLETTE

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—For the two weeks since their marriage, Arvo Jeori and his bride have been unable to sleep, so they appealed to Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette for relief.

"It is the neighbors," their letter to the governor said. "Every night they hold a charivari party and pound tin pans and toot horns under the windows of our farm home from dark to dawn."

"We have appealed to the sheriff but the charivari is still going on. We swore out warrants, but that didn't do any good because the sheriff let them all go as soon as he had arrested them. We do not care to make trouble, but we do feel that we have the right to peace on our farm. We don't think it will do any good to go to the sheriff again, so we appeal to you as governor for relief."

According to the unwritten laws regulating charivaris in the north country, the father of the bride is expected to give the noise makers some kind of a present. Then they quit and go home. The crowd—and it's been growing nightly—has demanded that John Peterson, father of Mrs. Juori, donate $15. He has refused, so each night the crowd returns to renew their demands—and their noise.

Columbus, O., Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Warren G. Harding, once editor and publisher of the Marion, O., Star, who died in the presidency, has been nominated for a place in the Ohio Journalism Hall of Fame.

ONE CENT A MILE FOR ROUND TRIP

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(U.P.)—Thirteen western railroads will sell round trip tickets tomorrow and Saturday for one cent a mile, with the return limit August 16.

Tickets carrying pullman and parlor car privileges will sell for about two cents a mile.

This attempt to spur passenger travel will be applied by the Illinois Central railroad to all points on its system.

The low rate will apply only between specified points on the Burlington, Chicago & Alton, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific, Great Western, Northwestern, Rock Island, Santa Fe, Soo Line and Wabash.

Ironton Searches for Alleged Victim
Request Officers Leave Calling

POSSES SEARCHES FOR MAN

Hear Story of Armed Men Entering
Store and Taking Away Proprietor; Mystery Solved

"A man's been kidnaped and is being taken for a ride. Come quick." With this announcement deputy sheriffs speeded to Ironton to investigate. When they got there they were informed that armed men had entered the pool hall of Albert Swanson and that he was taken from there and Swanson and the men drove off in the Ironton man's car.

It appeared a clear case of kidnaping and even foul play. A posse was quickly formed and all roads beyond the Cuyuna Range were patrolled.

Wednesday morning Deputy Sheriff George Ridley tried a new solution to the alleged kidnaping. He telephoned the federal prohibition headquarters at Duluth.

"Did you arrest an Albert Swanson at Ironton Tuesday night?" he asked. "Yes, we've got him here," came the reply.

Men who assisted in the search complained today that the next time federal officers take a man from their midst that they leave calling cards to prevent them from staying up all night and causing so much excitement.

Kramer, 68

Pneumonia, the resulting ailment from his rescue from drowning, claimed the life of August Kramer, 68 year old St. Mathias bachelor at the St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday at 3 p. m.

Kramer was in swimming Tuesday evening in the Nokaissippi river when he took a cramp and went under. He was rescued and his rescuers employed resuscitation methods to revive him. After apparently recovering from the effects of the near drowning Kramer took suddenly sick in the night and was rushed to the Brainerd hospital.

Kramer was living at the home of his nephew, John Geisinger, farmer, Ft. Ripley Rte. 2 where he cooked and took care of the house.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The remains will be at the Hoenig mortuary tomorrow.

a Twin Cities attorney, represented Mrs. Fleener in her action against the bank. The settlement was made before the case went to court.

The Indemnity Company refused to settle or defend the Fleener case on the grounds that they were not notified of the injuries of Mrs. Fleener until November 23, 1928.

The defendant claimed that on receipt of notice of the accident the company notified the plaintiff in writing that it would not accept liability under the policy because of the plaintiff's failure to give prompt notice thereof as required by the terms of the policy.

The case went to the jury at 4:56 P. M. yesterday.

LEADING ISSUES IN RECESSIONS

DULL TURNOVER AT OPENING OF NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
By ELMER C. WALTZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Aug. 6.—Leading issues receded small amounts at the opening on the stock exchange today in dull turnover.

Steel Common was down to $3 7-8 off 3-8; American Telephone 165 1-8 off 1-8; American Can 39 1-4 off 1-8 and equaling its low for the past two years.

Declarations of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on General Motors common stock brought in buying orders for that issue and it opened 2,000 shares at 37 3-4 up 1/2.

Western Union was depressed 2 1-8 points to 109 1-4 and Auburn lost 2 1-4 to 135 1-4, while Loew's was down 1 1-4 to 44 3-4. Otherwise changes were fractional.

No Salves—No Cutting
Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROLD, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROLD has such a wonderful record right in this city, that H. F. ## LEADING ISSUES IN RECESSIONS

DULL TURNOVER AT OPENING OF NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

By ELMER C. WALKER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, Aug. 6.—Leading issues receded small amounts at the opening on the stock exchange today in dull turnover.

Steel Common was down to $3 7/8 off 3-8; American Telephone 165 1/8 off 1-8; American Can 39 1/4 off 1-8 and equaled its low for the past two years.

Declarations of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on General Motors common stock brought in buying orders for that issue and it opened 2,000 shares at 37 3/4 up 1/2.

Western Union was depressed 2 1/8 points to 109 1/4 and Auburn lost 2 1/4 to 135 1/4, while Loew's was down 1 1/4 at 44 3/4. Otherwise changes were fractional.

End Piles Quick

No Salves—No Cutting
Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that H. F. Dunn and Johnson's Pharmacy say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back. advt.
